ABOUT DR. TERRI HORTON

Dr. Terri Horton is a work futurist and founder of FuturePath, LLC. She is a future of work expert. Her expertise sits at the intersection of the future of work, artificial intelligence, and the impact on business and people strategies. She is a consultant, corporate trainer, executive coach, international speaker, and author that delivers high-impact and future-focused strategies and solutions for organizations, business professionals, and entrepreneurs.

Dr. Horton is a widely recognized thought leader on the future of work, an international speaker, and a subject-matter expert with two global research consultancies. She has provided strategic insights for the Pew Research Center, the Obama Foundation and Forbes. She is an advisory board member for the global Artificial Intelligence Forum and the MIT Global Technology Review Panel and a research advisor for Amoeboids. Dr. Horton's prior experience includes marketing and advertising leadership and executive roles with global media organizations and administrative roles in higher education. She is a TEDx speaker and the author of the book Force Majeure: A Futurist's Guide to Boldly Thriving on Your Terms in Future of Work, which published in August 2021 and is available on Amazon.

Dr. Horton holds a doctorate in education focused on organizational change and leadership from the University of Southern California. She holds a Master of Arts in organizational management, an MBA with a concentration in marketing, micro-credentials in AI business strategy from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, data analytics and human resources from Cornell University, and training in futures studies from the Institute of the Future. She is a Workhuman® Certified Professional, EQ-i 2.0/EQ360 certified to assess, coach, and train leaders on emotional intelligence, holds SHRM-CP, PHR, and SWP human resource industry credentials. Dr. Horton is also an instructor in the University of California and California State University systems and a course facilitator at Cornell University.

WHY YOU NEED THIS BOOK

I wrote this book because wherever you are in your career, I want you to look the future of work squarely in the face and own it on your terms as we move through this decade.

As the accelerated future of work continues to reveal itself, you need a roadmap for navigating the new realities of business and work.

If you prepare and pivot, the future of work can be empowering, dynamic, and the catalyst for designing how to work on your terms with purpose and intention.
